

Dementia guide for carers and care providers

Comprehensive guide for everyone who cares for someone with dementia

Dementia Guide for Carers and Care Providers: What the experts say

[1]

The Dementia Guide for Carers and Care Providers offers practical information for anyone caring for a person with dementia and has been developed by our Thames Valley team in collaboration with healthcare professionals, educators and carers. The guide aims to support an understanding of the progressive nature of dementia and the challenges a person caring for someone with dementia may experience. Its focus is on living well with dementia.

The guide:

- shares information that will help support the journey of those with dementia, once they have been diagnosed
- acts as a tool for carers and care providers, working together and using the guide establish greater knowledge and understanding of what is required when a person is diagnosed with dementia
- answers questions from carers and care providers about services that will be required to support them and the person they are caring for
- provides information in a language that is understandable to all, highlighting that dementia is everyone's business, emphasising that the person with dementia is central and that they should receive the advice and support they need to live well.
