

SAFEGUARDING AND HUMAN RIGHTS: A practical introduction

Good safeguarding relies on well-trained staff aware of their legal duties to protect and respect the basic rights of those they care for, this is where the British Institute of Human Rights can help.

As the leading provider of practical training on what the Human Rights Act means in practice across a range of the sectors, the British Institute of Human Rights is pleased to offer a new course for 2014 "Safeguarding and Human Rights: A Practical Introduction."

This one-day course aimed at those with safeguarding responsibilities in the public sector or voluntary/community sector, provides an overview of how the Human Rights Act can be put into practice in your work, helping you to comply with legal obligations and improve service delivery and outcomes. This course uses a variety of interactive learning styles, including presentations, group-work and case-studies, covering:

- ✓ An introduction to human rights: history, principles and context
- ✓ An introduction to the Human Rights Act: how it works, the rights
- ✓ The Human Rights Act in practice: as a practical tool for change
- ✓ Using a human rights approach to your work

The next course will take place on Wednesday 12 February 2014 between 10am-4pm at 25 New Inn Yard, London EC2A 3EA.

Prices are linked to a sliding scale based on the size of your organisation.

For more information and to book, please visit our website: <http://www.bihar.org.uk/news/training-courses-human-rights>

Alternatively to discuss please get in touch with Helen on hwildbore@bihr.org.uk or 0207 882 5850

"Level of knowledge of the trainer was outstanding and made complex subject matter accessible and real for all...the best trainer I've ever experienced."

Council worker, Birmingham
2013

"Very good and interesting and I will definitely use the Human Rights Act more effectively and efficiently in the future."

Safeguarding worker, Essex
2013

"Will use knowledge from course to inform actions and policies within the workforce"

Safeguarding worker,
London 2013

"Workforce should demonstrate that they are providing quality care and support which includes...good understanding of the legislative framework and human rights"

A national response to Winterbourne View
Department of Health

"Abuse is a violation of an individual's human and civil rights by any other person or persons"

No Secrets Guidance
Department of Health & Home Office