DIGNITY AUDIT TOOLS

There are two self Dignity through Action Audit Tools. They can be used at any time before, during or after a dignity workshop at the discretion of the facilitator to help workshop participants focus on the key dignity issues from a personal perspective.

The audit tools should be used anonymously with the results kept private by the individual.

The example timetable for a full day workshop includes a session using audit tools and is scheduled to provide input into the planning exercise during a Full Day Workshop.

The two self audit tools are:

- Careworkers' Personal Dignity Audit Tool. This self-awareness audit tool has been designed to be used by anyone involved in care practice, but is really aimed at staff in direct contact with older people. It allows care staff the opportunity to reflect in some detail on the many personal attitudinal and practice issues raised by the Dignity Challenges.
- Supervisors' and Managers' Dignity Audit Tool. This audit tool follows much of the same content as the Personal Dignity Audit Tool and includes additional subject material. It focuses on the subject of dignity from the perspective of line management issues and problems. This audit tool can be used by managers at all levels to consider how confident they are about how their staff might approach dignity in care.

DIGNITY AUDIT TOOL (PERSONAL ASSESSMENT VERSION)

This is a short set of questions covers the subject of dignity in the care of the older person. The purpose of these questions is to provide you with a structure for a personal and private assessment of your own attitudes and care practices.

This Personal Audit Tool has been designed to be part of the Dignity through Action Workshop Resources and assumes you have some knowledge of the 10 'Dignity Challenges', although this is not essential. The 'questions' have been developed from the findings of a number of studies and reports which have highlighted concerns about providing care with dignity to older people.

For simplicity the audit tool uses the same scale throughout and should enable you to carry out a reasonably comprehensive and structured self-evaluation of your care practices in the context of dignity in about 15-20 minutes. However the quality of this exercise will be dependent on how much thought you put into it and how honest you are with yourself.

You will probably find that you will assess yourself as 'excellent' many areas, but it is likely that you will also identify aspects of your own practice that may need to change. You may even be aware of other concerns that have not been included in the list below. If you are using this Audit Tool as part of a Dignity through Action Workshop then this may help you identify topics for the Action Planning Exercise.

DIGNITY AUDIT TOOL (SUPERVISORS' AND MANAGERS' VERSION)

This is a short set of questions covers the subject of dignity in the care of the older person from the perspective of your responsibilities and care practices as a team leader, supervisor or manager . The purpose of these questions is to provide you with a structure for a personal and private overall assessment of your staff.

This Audit Tool has been designed to be part of the Dignity through Action Workshop Resources and assumes you have some knowledge of the 10 'Dignity Challenges', although this is not essential. The selected 'questions' have been developed from the findings of a number of studies and reports which have highlighted concerns about providing care with dignity to older people.

For simplicity the audit tool uses the same scale throughout and should enable you to carry out a reasonably comprehensive and structured evaluation of your staff in the context of dignity in about 20 minutes. However the quality of this exercise will be dependent on how much thought you put into it and how honest you are.

You will probably find that you are very confident about your staff in many areas, but this assessment may identify aspects of care practice that may need further review and development. You may even be aware of other concerns that have not been included in the list below. If you are using this Audit Tool as part of a Dignity through Action Workshop then this may help you identify topics for the Action Planning Exercise. You should note that the set of statements below aligns closely with the statements contained in the Personal Assessment Version.
